On February 6th in 2018, a big earthquake hit Hualien City in Taiwan and at least, 17 people died and 285 people got hurt. Earthquakes attack Taiwan each year. Why are there so many earthquakes here? Earthquakes are the shaking of the ground when energy lets go in waves. These waves are seismic waves. They are like ocean waves, but they move through the ground. Most earthquakes come from the movement of large pieces of the Earth's crust, and we call them plates. Two plates meet at a fault. Faults look like large gaps in the ground. If the two plates meet and move in different ways, they build up energy at the fault line. When too much energy builds up, the ground starts to shake. More than 1,000,000 earthquakes occur in the world each year. But we can only feel about 100,000. Of these earthquakes, only about 19 a year bring dangerous damage. Scientists still cannot know when and where the next big one will hit. So it is important to prepare for it when you live in an earthquake zone.

(三) Blue Whale Sings Off-Pitch

Blue whales love to sing, and they talk to each other across long distances by singing. For years, whale songs are getting lower in pitch. What made this change? Recently, a team of scientists came up with new ideas about it. That's because whale songs aren't as loud as before. How did this happen?

The first reason is that there are more whales. In the past, many whales died from commercial whale hunting, and there were few whales, about 50, in the world then. However, after this activity stopped in 1985, the number of whales started to climb, and they lived closer together again. As they were getting closer, their songs were getting softer and quieter, too.

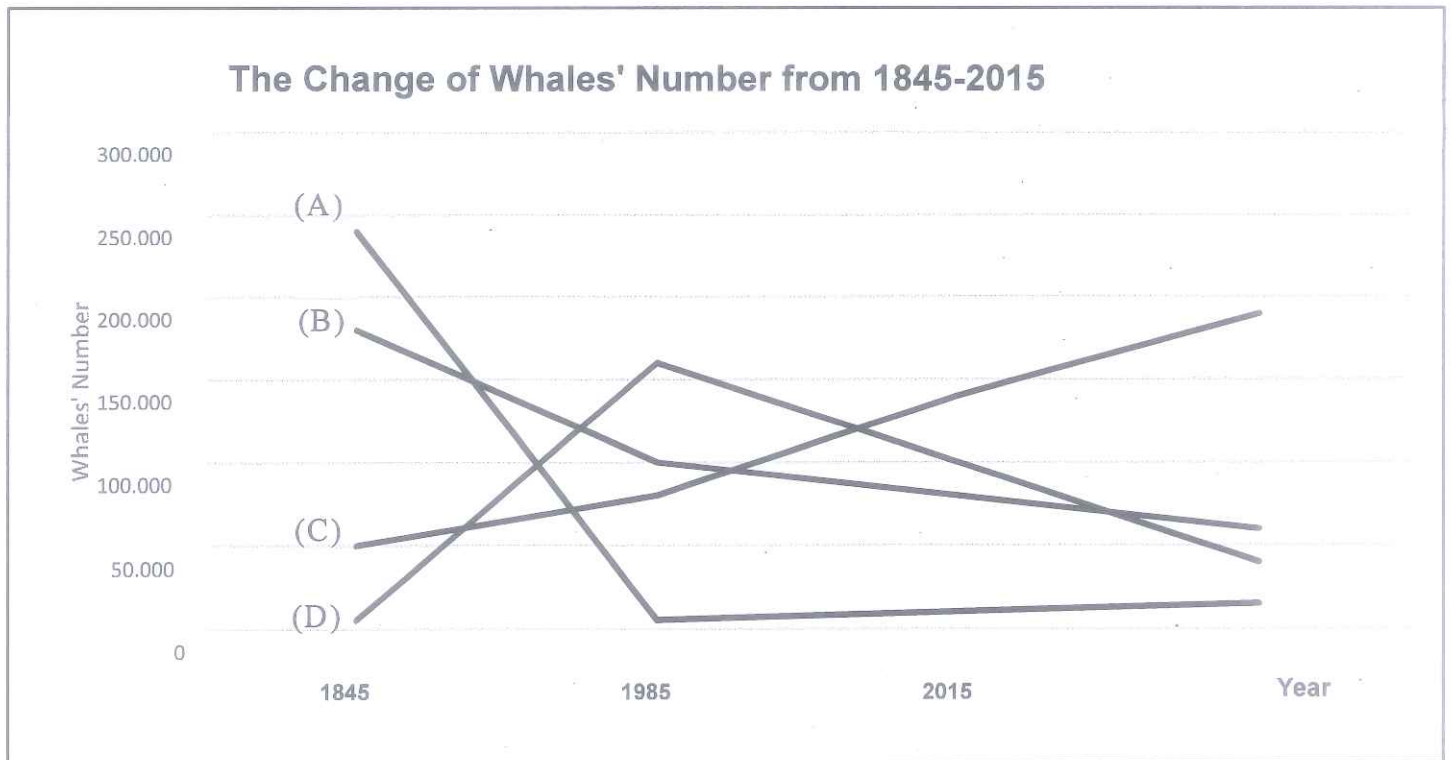

The second reason why the pitch of whale songs is dropping is because of carbon dioxide (CO₂). Carbon dioxide (CO₂) made ocean water more acidic and even made sounds in water louder. Under this water, whales can hear each other in a farther distance, so they don't need to sing so loudly.

"For whales, this is good news. But for the environment, it's not good at all.", said one of the scientists.

distance 距離 pitch 音高 scientist 科學家 reason 原因 commercial hunt 商業獵捕 activity 活動

carbon dioxide (CO₂) 二氧化碳 ocean 海洋 acidic 酸性的 farther 較遠的 news 消息 environment 環境

() 8. According to the article, which line can describe the change of whales' number? describe 描述

() 9. Cathy made a list about the cause-effect relationship in this reading. Which part is NOT correct? relationship 關係

Part	Cause 原因	→	Effect 結果
(A)	Commercial Whale Hunting	→	Whales became less and less.
(B)	Carbon dioxide	→	Sounds in water got louder.
(C)	Closer distance between whales	→	Whales sang louder.
(D)	Carbon dioxide & More Whales	→	Whale songs are getting lower in pitch.

() 10. Why did the scientist say "This is not good news for the environment."?

- (A) The scientist thought the acidic water will kill a lot of blue whales.
- (B) The scientist thought blue whales will make more noise than before.
- (C) The scientist thought blue whales will swim too fast and hit other sea animals.
- (D) The scientist thought the acidic water will make it harder to live for some ocean lives.
